MEDIA MONITORING

Bureau for Social Research \(BIRODI\) – Serbia is a "think-thank" non-governmental organization (founded in 2005) in Social and Political Sciences field, which conducts applied research, analyzes, proposes and implements viable solutions within the public, civil and commercial part of society. It is addressed to decision makers, civil society and the general public.

All BIRODI activities are sorted in four programs:

Anti-corruption program

Regular activity of BIRODI is to alert on violation of principles of good governance and rule of law and on corruption cases on national and local level. New strategy acknowledged BIRODI's recommendations for including the local level in the fight against corruption, and established BIRODI's system of Local plans for fight against corruption.

Surveys/research program

BIRODI mission is to put researches into function of democratization. Under this program BIRODI is promoting the importance of research in designing and evaluation of social, political, economic and cultural development; creating a system for monitoring and evaluating the process of social development;

Media monitoring program

Media monitoring program BIRODI develops since 2012 and give its observations in comprehensive reports.

MEDIA MONITORING

KEY FINDINGS

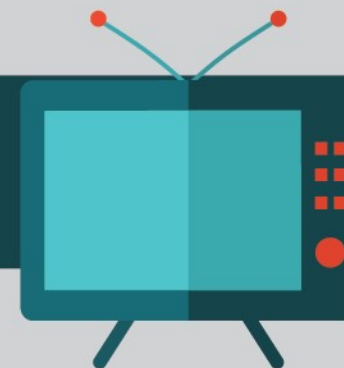

1. Aleksandar Vučić is a key actor in the analyzed central news programs on TV with national coverage (RTS, Pink, Prva, Happy and B92). He is represented in a dominant way in terms of time representation, tone of representation over 90% of positive time and through topics that are outside his constitutional powers. This kind of media coverage, through which more than 2/3 of the citizens of Serbia who have the right to vote are informed, and which is contrary to the Constitution (Article 51), the Law on Public Information (Article ...), the Law on Electronic Media and the Law on Public Media Services, which was not sanctioned by REM, resulted in the building of the rating of Aleksandar Vučić, which is more than four times higher than the rating of the Serbian Progressive Party.

Since 2020, Aleksandar Vučić, as the President of the Republic, rents his name to SNS election lists, whose deputies in return do not sanction his unconstitutional behavior and do not sanction the non-implementation of the Law on Electronic Media and by-laws by REM. The result of this media situation creates a captive National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia, which is unable to implement its competences defined by the Constitution of the Republic of Serbia, i.e. the Law on the National Assembly of Serbia. The National Assembly captured in this way captures the regulatory bodies by allowing the regulatory bodies not to work in accordance with the competences regulated by law and the absence of replacements of the elected members of the mentioned subjects. An example of this is the Regulatory Agency for Electronic Media (BIRODI - Report on the work of REM) and the Agency for Combating Corruption (BIRODI – Closed circle of capturing parliament and regulatory institutions).

2. From the point of view of political diversity, the latest monitoring shows that there is a kind of discrimination between parties, including the ruling party, the Serbian Progressive Party, at the level of central news programs in relation to the time and tonality of reporting by Aleksandar Vučić as President of the Republic. Political parties are generally marginalized, at the expense of the personal power of Aleksandar Vučić. Opposition parties are significantly less represented. This is especially true for the non-election period, when they are marginalized and neutrally represented on the public service in central news broadcasts, and on televisions with national coverage, especially TV Pink, they are somewhat more represented, but in an extremely negative way (parties that are in favor of EU integration), that is, the censorship of right-wing parties that have the potential to take over the votes of the ruling SNS.

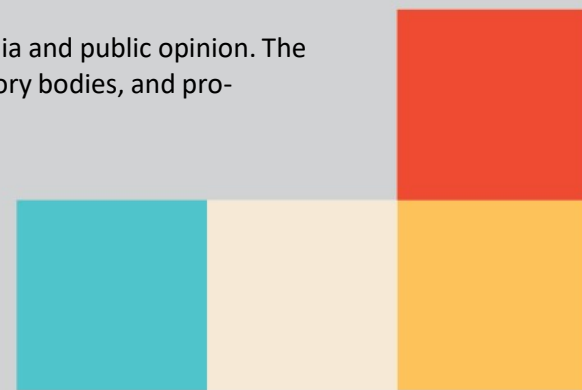

MEDIA MONITORING

3. Reporting on post-election events is characterized by a kind of media neglect. There is no debate in the media about the report of the ODHIR observation mission. Pro-government media cite parts of reports that speak of successfully conducted elections, while parts of reports that point to the collapse of election integrity are censored. The activities and actors whose function is to point out election irregularities in the central news broadcasted on televisions with national frequencies are reported in a shallow way (RTS), cheapened or negatively reported (commercial televisions with national coverage). It should be pointed out that the parties of national minorities were neglected by the media in the central news broadcasts, that is, they were left without an essential opportunity to address all the citizens of Serbia, but that they presented their programs in their ethno-local media. In the context of the election, coverage of the EU became dominantly negative in the first 15 days after the election particularly on TV Happy and B92, while during the second two weeks it became neutral and negative. The representatives of the observation mission of ODHIR and the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe did not get the opportunity to be asked and questioned by television stations with national coverage about the findings they presented in their reports.

4. Public opinion polls are presented in an unprofessional, illegal manner and are subject to abuse. In particular, public opinion polls were presented contrary to international standards (Code of the World Association for Public Opinion Polls and ESOMAR), and also Article 62 of the Law on Electronic Media, which is under REM authority. There were cases where certain agencies used call centers for pseudo surveys where party activists or supporters were hired to conduct pseudo surveys, who didn't intend to conduct a survey, actually they promoted the list "Serbia must not stop - Aleksandar Vučić" pretending that they are calling from the headquarters of President Aleksandar Vučić.

5. In Serbia, there is a system of retaliation against civil society organizations that monitor the media and public opinion. The highest state officials, including the President of the Republic, deputies, representatives of regulatory bodies, and pro-government media are involved in media attacks and non-sanctioning.
